TETTER PERSIST IN WARSAW CAMPAIGN

The Mightiest Struggle of the War is Being Waged Along the Great Russian Front

BATTLE LINE EXTENDS NEARLY 1,000 MILES

Under the Most Successful of the German Commanders, Von Hindenburg and Von Mackensen, the Austro-German Are Advancing with the Determination to Break Through the Russian Lines of Defense—In Poland Alone It is Estimated That Several Million Men Are Engaged in Battle—Another Italian Cruiser, the Giuseppe Garibaldi, Has Fallen a Victim to an Austrian Submarine, But Most of Her Crew Were Saved—French Report Repulse of Strong Attacks on the Heights of the Meuse.

The mightiest struggle of the war, in which Austrians and Germans are making their supreme effort, is being waged along the great Russian front, which extends nearly a thousand miles, from the Baltic to Bessarabia. In Russian Poland, the center of the war, the Austro-Germans, under the most successful of the German commanders, Von Hindenburg and Von Mackensen, are advancing with the determination of breaking through the Russian lines of defense. Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian commander-in-chief, has, it is reported, brought up vast numbers of troops to meet the sweep of the Austro-Germans, but the Russian line has been made on either side.

In Poland alone it is estimated that several million men are engaged in the battle, and the opinion is expressed by military critics that should the Russians fail to withstand the pressure which is daily being exerted against Warsaw with great vigor, they are in a position to withdraw even to the extent of completely evacuating Poland.

A second Italian cruiser has fallen victim to an Austrian submarine. The Giuseppe Garibaldi, one of a squadron of four which bombarded the Austro-German coast, was torpedoed and sent to the bottom. The cruiser sank within fifteen minutes, but most of her crew were saved. The other cruiser lost was the Amalfi, which was torpedoed on July 7 in the Adriatic.

The note on submarine warfare which is to be sent to the German government has been revised by President Wilson and Secretary Lansing in conference for submission to the cabinet. Despatches from Washington state that the position already taken by the

FIRE ON UNITED STATES BATTLESHIP OKLAHOMA

Of Mysterious Origin—Dense Smoke But No Flames Visible.

Philadelphia, July 19.—Fire of a mysterious origin was discovered tonight about 10 o'clock on the battleship Oklahoma at the New York Shipbuilding Company in Camden, N. J. The ship was in the dry dock, and the fire was in the compartment under turret No. 1, shortly after the workmen had left the yard for the day. The compartment was flooded, and it was believed the fire had been put out. At 9 o'clock, however, more smoke was observed, and the compartment was again flooded. The fire being finally extinguished an hour later.

Mr. Knox, president of the shipbuilding company, declared that he was unable to account for the fire, as to the best of his knowledge, there was nothing in the compartment from which the smoke came.

The Oklahoma is of the super-dreadnought type and is about ready for her trial trip. The builders expect to deliver her to the government in September. The ship is the first of a class of which the company has built three.

LEO FRANK REMAINS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

But Prison Physician is Hopeful of His Recovery.

Milledgeville, Ga., July 19.—The condition of Leo M. Frank, suffering from a serious knife wound in the throat, inflicted by William Green, a fellow inmate, is still critical, but the prison physician, Dr. G. D. Compton, is hopeful of his recovery, though blood poisoning was feared.

Frank's last operation today was announced as 1913, his circulation at 100 and his respiration at 20. Earlier his temperature was 102.4.

Mr. Frank was convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, a young girl, and sentenced to death. He was in the prison for several years before his escape.

DEMAND FOR MACHINISTS IN NEW ENGLAND

Vice President of International Union Believes General Strike Unnecessary.

Boston, July 19.—The demand for machinists is so much greater than the supply that a general strike in New England is not necessary, in the opinion of P. J. Conlon, international vice president of the machinists' union. Conlon, in an interview after this meeting, said that the union would not be called into action until the demand for machinists was such that it would be impossible to get the work done without them.
